A NOTE FROM THE PRINCIPAL!

As we get into October and the season begins to change, please make sure your child comes to school dressed appropriately for the cooler weather. Unless it is raining or the wind chill is extremely cold, we will be going outside for recess everyday. It is hard to believe, but the first quarter ends on Friday, October 25th. Students will be dismissed two hours early that day at 1:55 PM.

Parent-teacher conferences will begin on Thursday, November 12th from 4:00 PM to 7:45 PM.

Conferences will also be held on Thursday, November 21st from 4:00 PM to 8:00 PM as well as Friday, November 22nd from 8:00 AM to 12:00 PM. Information regarding how to schedule a conference will be sent out by your child's teaching team. Please make every attempt to sign up to meet with your child's teachers during this time. If there are any academic questions or concerns at all, it is crucial to set a plan in place so your student can be successful for the remainder of the school year.

For those of you that drop your child off at school in the mornings, please remember that the building does not open until 8:35AM. There are a number of students being dropped off prior to the doors opening. This typically isn't an issue during the warmer months but I want to reiterate that the doors will not open until 8:35AM regardless of the temperature outside. Keep this in mind prior to dropping your child off in the mornings.

Principal

This is a reminder, if you owe for any outstanding school fees, you may send money in with your child or pay online at the following link www.k12paymentcenter.com. If your 6th grade student owes any fees, they must be paid before they will be able to attend the Kings Island field trip.

HELPING YOUR MIDDLE-SCHOOL STUDENT ACHIEVE BETTER GRADES

Parents who want to help their children succeed in school must strike the proper balance. They should be involved—but not too involved. They should set limits—but allow freedom. They should encourage their kids to excel—but not expect perfection. However, it's not as hard as it might sound to help your kids enjoy their academic experience. As the first quarter progress reports come home, this is a great time to establish household routines that help you and your child. Below are 10 tips from experts on how to make this year a great one for your family.

Create a routine. Kids benefit from having structure in their home life. Some examples are getting up at the same time each morning, eating a nutritious breakfast, and instituting a positive bedtime ritual that includes 20 minutes of reading (up to middle school).

Prepare for the morning the night before. Avoid morning chaos by eliminating the need for last-minute decisions. A bad morning typically lingers on throughout the school day.

Help your child get organized. Organization extends beyond assembling the next day's materials. Kids need help developing a system for storing and retrieving items so that they feel in control of their success.

Provide a quiet place for homework, but let your child work alone. A regular time and a good workspace to complete homework are essential, and homework should be a household priority. Remember that the work is your child's responsibility, not yours.

Limit distractions. Television, computers, and video games can be a huge competitor for your child's attention, especially when it comes to homework, so limit these activities, at least on school nights.

Encourage intellectual curiosity. Engage your child in dinner-table conversations. Share your own interests or talk about current events. You will instill a love of learning.

Allow free time. Every child needs time to unwind, so be sure that at least part of each day is free of responsibilities. On the flip side: avoid over-scheduling.

Build relationships with teachers. Open the lines of communication. Ask questions and be proactive with your concerns. Share the Progress Book password with your child so he/she can monitor their own grades/assignments.

Focus on effort rather than grades. Is your child working hard? Can they work independently? Show confidence in your children's abilities, but set realistic goals frequently. Strive for improvement, not perfection.

Learn how to step back. When evaluating your child's overall performance, be careful not to let your own ambitions take over. Resist the urge to micromanage your child's education. School is your child's job, not yours.
